

City School Board...Keator New President

By JON POWERS KINGSTON

Surprise developments dominated Thursday's meeting of the Kingston Board of Education, indicating that 1972-73 may well go down as the year of change for the local school board.

Thursday's meeting included:

- The resignation of C. Lester Legg, and the appointment of Arthur H. Withall to fill the vacancy;
- The election of Harold E. Keator Jr. as board president, ending the two year term of Thomas Reynolds.
- The swearing-in of 25-year-old Ward Todd and W. James Penrose as new board members;
- A resolution to conduct five of next year's meetings outside the City of Kingston;
- And the possibility that a high school student will be permitted to join the Board of Education as a non-voting member.

Legg, who has served for four years on the school board, submitted his resignation because of the existence of a possible conflict of interest between his job and his duties on the Board of Education.

In his letter of resignation, Legg explained that, earlier this year, he became associated with the accounting firm of Ronder and Ronder, which has audited the district's books in recent years. When the school board Thursday night named Ronder and Ronder as the district's Certified Public Accountant for 1972-73, Legg submitted his resignation.

Legg explained that, "Legally, there is no conflict; professionally, there is a conflict." He said that to continue as a member of the school board would be in violation of the Code of Ethics of the American Certified Public Accountant Association.

His resignation was accepted "with deepest regret."

The school board, however, wasted little time in naming a replacement. Mrs. Evelyn Corsones, just prior to adjournment, moved that Arthur H. Withall be appointed to fill the vacancy created by Legg's resignation. Joseph Feraca seconded the motion.

Mrs. Corsones said she was proposing to fill the vacancy immediately because of the "difficulties" of running the district without a full complement of board members. She was apparently referring to a situation created in September, 1971, when Charles Raible resigned from the board because of personal reasons. The vacancy was not filled until the elections in May.

Both Mrs. Corsones and Feraca had high praise for Withall, a veteran of school board affairs. He served for ten years on the school board in the 1960's, and was president for five years. Prior to consolidation, he served for 12 years on the Board of Education of the Rifton School. Withall is also one of the founders and original members of Ulster County BOCES.

Mrs. Corsones and Feraca also had a hand in Keator's election to the board presidency. An eight year member of the board (he has served longer than any other current member), Keator was nominated by Mrs. Corsones; Feraca seconded the motion. Both said after the meeting that they felt Keator would "bind the board together" and help to "organize" its activities. Thomas Reynolds had previously served two consecutive years as board president.

Todd made his board debut an auspicious one, by offering moral support to a student suggestion that a student be permitted to sit in on board meetings in an advisory capacity.

That proposal was made by School student and a member of the executive council of the school's student council.

Gorman proposed that a student—either elected by the student body or appointed by the student council—be allowed to join the Board of Education as a non-voting member, to help "institute constructive or progressive ideas—not radical or far-out—but thoughts and concepts that will alter Kingston High School only slightly, but for the betterment of the system."

Gorman suggested that the presence of a student on the school board ("The school board exists for our benefit.") would help to "enlighten the board on ideas, concepts and the needs of the students."

Todd, who strongly supports the idea of greater student participation in board affairs, said he thought the school board would act favorably on the proposal. "There has to be more meaningful contact between the board and the students," said Todd. "The students have changed tremendously in just the past few years; education hasn't changed." Todd, at 25, is the youngest person ever to sit on the school board, and was the top vote-getter in May's elections.

The board said it would consider the proposal.

The school board, however, did approve a proposal by Feraca that may see greater participation by the public in school board affairs. Feraca proposed that five of the board's 12 public meetings next year be held at outlying schools in the district, including Port Ewen, Tillson and the M. Clifford Miller School in Lake Katrine.

"If the people won't come to the board meetings," said Feraca, "the board meetings will go to the people." Expressing his concern that communications between the board and the taxpayers has ceased, Feraca proposed that the board attempt to restore interest in its activities.

Although, traditionally, less than a dozen people attend the board's regular monthly meetings, Feraca said he thought his proposal would stimulate greater interest in school board affairs. "I think the people will respond," he said, "they have a lot to say about what's happening in our schools, and I think they should be given that opportunity. This will make it easier for them."

A schedule of the board's meeting dates, and locations, for next year will be presented at the August session.

Decision Expected From Justice Burger

Dem Contenders Wait

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Knowing they have to stop George S. McGovern or forfeit their hopes for the Democratic presidential nomination, Hubert H. Humphrey, Edmund S. Muskie and George C. Wallace flew here today to press that effort.

McGovern, claiming enough votes to win the nomination on the first ballot, was scheduled to arrive Saturday, along with many of the state delegations to the convention.

But a major decision, key to Appeals ruled Wednesday that the aspirations of all the candidates, still was awaiting action by the Supreme Court in Washington.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger was expected to decide today whether to convene the Supreme Court in emergency session to decide whether McGovern can retain all 271 delegate votes he won in the California primary or forfeit 153 of them to other candidates, including 106 to his chief rival, Humphrey.

The U.S. Circuit Court of McGovern be given all the California delegates.

On the basis of that decision, the latest United Press International tabulation showed Mc-Govern with 1,366.95 firm votes and 55 leaning. Humphrey has 377.55, with 67 leaning; Wallace, 369 and 6 leaning; and Muskie, 193.6 and 8 leaning. There are 422.1 uncommitted delegate votes.

Democratic officials Thursday turned down a demand by poor people that 750 of their representatives be allowed to lobby for their welfare cause among the delegates on the convention floor.

Murphy said there was no room for anyone else on the floor. He said he had offered the spokesmen 50 to 75 gallery passes for each evening session of the convention, which opens here Monday. A spokesman for the poor people said the Democratic officials must act by noon today, and pledged to press his fight "to the very bitter end."

With the candidates still absent Thursday, vice presidential hopefuls shared the spotlight, although none of them appeared to be in serious contention for No. 2 place on the Democratic party ticket.

Former Massachusetts Gov.

Endicott Peabody, who won the New Hampshire vice presidential primary, opened his convention campaign by claiming he would have about 1,000 delegates by the time nominations open.

In Washington, Sen. Mike Gravel of Alaska announced that he was a vice presidential candidate, and Virginia Democratic chairman Joseph Fitzpatrick suggested Mississippi newspaper editor Hodding Carter III.

Despite those claims to the vice-presidency, it is expected that Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will be given the first chance to refuse the vice-presidential nomination.

Sources close to Sen. George McGovern said that if McGovern wins the party's presidential nomination, Kennedy will be offered the second spot on the ticket. If he refuses, then the others will be considered. Recent polls have indicated that McGovern's chances of beating Nixon in November would be strengthened with Kennedy on his ticket as vice-president.

Wallace Leaves the Hospital

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP)—George C. Wallace ended 54 days of hospitalization today with thanks to those who "saved my life" and sped toward resumption of his governorship in Alabama and his quest for the presidency in Miami Beach.

"I feel good. I feel great," Wallace declared.

The disabled governor was pushed in his wheelchair to a limousine amidst the applause of several score spectators for a motorcade to nearby Andrews Air Force Base and the flight south in an Air Force hospital plane.

But Wallace, wounded May 15 at a political rally in Laurel, Md., first paused briefly to thank government and hospital officials and staff members for the care they accorded him.

In an accompanying written statement at Holy Cross Hospital Wallace said "Sister Helen Marie, the doctors, sisters and staff of the hospital will always hold a very dear place in my heart. They saved my life, and I wish God's blessings to all of them."

As he shook hands with hospital staffers and other well-wishers, and saluted toward news photographers, it almost seemed as if he were already back on the campaign trail for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Those accompanying Wallace include his wife Cornelia and two daughters, Peggy Sue and Lee. Drs. Joseph Schanno and Herman Maganzini, who have treated Wallace at Holy Cross, and Dr. George Traugh and Judy Cantry, rehabilitation specialists from the University of Alabama's Birmingham Medical Center, also are going.

Billy Joe Camp, the governor's press secretary, said Wallace's Miami Beach hotel room has been furnished with physical therapy equipment. Special ramps built to accommodate Wallace's wheelchair have been installed at the convention hall.

He remains crippled from a spinal wound, but can walk with the aid of braces and a walking bar.

Welcoming rallies were planned during his stop at a Montgomery airport and upon his arrival at Miami International Airport.

Wallace's mother, who is recuperating from major surgery, met the plane in Montgomery for her first visit with Wallace since he was shot, aides said.

A band played as the governor was wheeled down a ramp to the ground.

Plans also called for Wallace to make a brief speech—his first since the shooting—before boarding the plane to continue to Miami Beach.

Sen. George McGovern, front-runner in the Democratic campaign, visited Wallace Thursday for what aides described as purely a social call.

Spassky Makes First Move Tuesday

Chess Problems...Finally Settled

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —After two weeks of behind-the-scenes diplomacy and much talking, Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky have agreed to get down to their real business—playing chess.

The match for the world title now held by the 35-year-old Russian will begin Tuesday in the Icelandic capital. The winner gets $150,000 and the loser $100,000.

Spassky, a handsome Lenin-grad journalist who makes a living playing chess the year around, will make the first move. He won the draw Thursday night and will play white, meaning he will make the first move. The 29-year-old American will play black in the first game. In succeeding games they alternate.

Despite the charges and countercharges exchanged between the two camps there was no sign of personal animosity between the two.

When Spassky was introduced at the draw, Fischer applauded. And when the challenger, dressed in a green suit and red tie, was presented, Spassky gave him a big hand.

As they shook hands at the end of the ceremony, Spassky held on to Fischer's hand and said, "And good luck."

The ceremony confirmed that all the problems that delayed the match for nine days finally had been settled.

It began with Fischer refusing to come to Iceland for the originally scheduled start July 2 because he was not happy with the financial terms.

Jim Slater, a wealthy British banker, saved the match when he offered to double the prize money from $125,000 to $250,000.

Fischer finally turned up July 4—but by then, Spassky was upset and threatened to pull out. He first demanded that Fischer forfeit the first game, then asked for an apology from the American and finally asked Dr. Max Euwe, president of the International Chess Federation (FIDE), to admit that he violated the rules when he postponed the match in Fischer's absence instead of disqualifying the American.

Euwe, himself a former world champion and the last non-Russian to hold the title, promptly penned a declaration admitting that he had made a mistake.

Thursday, Fischer broke the ice when he wrote a letter to "Dear Boris" apologizing for his "disrespectful behavior." Fischer admitted he had "offended you and your country, the Soviet Union."

"I simply became carried away by my petty dispute over money with the Icelandic chess organizers," Fischer wrote in his letter.

Spassky accepted the apology, although it was not delivered directly to him by Fischer.

In the end, the Russians appeared to have dropped their demand that Fischer forfeit the first game.

City GOP to Reelect Feeney

By LYNN MULVANEY KINGSTON

The revitalized City Republican Committee, fresh from a striking state senatorial primary win, is expected to reelect its current chairman Edward T. (Ted) Feeney to a two-year term, at its convention Wednesday, July 12 at 8 p.m. in the County Office Building.

The City GOP Committee is also expected to name Harry C. Kapreilian, newly appointed Republican County Legislator to be a candidate to succeed himself in the Nov. 7 election.

Feeney, Kingston lawyer, has been city chairman since his election, Feb. 11, 1971. In February of this year, he expressed a desire to give up the post but remained on the job through the June 20 Primary.

The outstanding success of that contest, in which the City GOP delivered the vote for the Ulster County GOP-endorsed State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn, is said to be partly responsible for Feeney's present decision to stay in the leadership post.

On vacation this week, the city chairman was unavailable for comment but his primary night remarks indicate his interest in remaining chairman.

Special

Saying he was proud of his organization's efforts in behalf of Schermerhorn, he called it "the first step in the Republican reorganization in the city."

Although Feeney's election is virtually assured, there is a possibility that former GOP alderman John Machione will make a bid for the post.

The Republicans have had four city chairmen in a little over three years. John Ray Mayone resigned in March of 1969 to run for mayor, was replaced by Ward W. Ingalsbe who in turn resigned and was replaced by Melvin Mones.

Feeney succeeded Mones who gave up the post in order to devote more time to his role as county legislator.

Feeney's present bid for reelection reportedly has the blessings of county Republican officials.

Former chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee to elect Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., Feeney is a Kingston native and also served as Kingston City Chairman for Assemblyman H. Clark Bell during Bell's 1968 Primary election for the Assembly nomination.

Feeney attended St. Mary's School and Kingston High School. He has a BS degree from Fordham University and received his LLB and Doctor of Juris Prudence from Albany Law School.

A former administrative assistant to Mayor John Schwenk, he has been active in Republican circles for many years.

He has served as a director of the Boys Club and is a member of St. Joseph's Church.

He is married to the former Mary Jane Reid of Pleasant Valley.

Large Agenda for Common Council

KINGSTON — A large agenda is on tap for Monday night's Common Council meeting in Kingston. Originally, $50,000 was budgeted for the program.

From Mayor Francis R. Koenig will come a request for approval of advertisement of bids for the leasing of equipment and drivers for permanent bus operation in the City of Kingston.

Also from the mayor will be a request to enter into a contractual agreement with Henry Cragan, a retired employee of the DPW, to act as a consultant.

A $100,000 law suit against the city for injuries allegedly sustained by a Poughkeepsie man in a car mishap will also be brought up before the council.

The man, Joseph Babiarz, of 512 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, has claimed injuries due to obstructed view from excessively high shrubs and illegally parked cars in an accident at the intersection of Fair and Agency Streets on March 24.

A $25,000 property damage claim has also been brought against the city by Joseph Saccomani, of 576 Broadway.

Also to be presented at the meeting is a communication from the Mayor reappointing Elmore Yallum as Chairman of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency.

Other action will include several resolutions concerning minor traffic control changes.

The meeting will convene at 7:30 p.m. Monday in City Hall.

City Fires Under Investigation

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — Detectives and fire officials today pressed an intensive investigation of two allegedly incendiary fires that occurred in Kingston over night, one of which gutted a three-story unoccupied building on the property of St. Anne's Convent on Broadway at Orchard Street in which three firemen were injured; the other blaze was in the rear of a large warehouse and millworking plant on the Miron property on East Strand, not far from a warehouse that was destroyed by a suspicious fire early last Saturday.

Detectives disclosed that the investigation into the warehouse fire has uncovered some bottles that were fashioned with pieces of cloth similar to molotov cocktails that are reportedly used by arsonists. Strong odors of flammable fluid were reportedly detected in the bottles that are undergoing laboratory tests.

The bottles were discovered after firemen quelled the flames that apparently erupted in a cardboard box that contained wood.

Police said that three boxes of casing stops reportedly valued at $48 and six sliding glass doors reportedly valued at $180 were destroyed.

Firefighters in charge of Chief Robert Maines contained the fire damage to the area where the blaze started. Seven pieces of apparatus were at the scene.

Police said a resident of Sleightsburg saw the fire from his home and notified authorities. His timely discovery, officials said, evidently averted a major blaze. Last Saturday morning, an apparently incendiary fire destroyed a large warehouse about a block from the building where last night's fire occurred.

The fire on the property of St. Anne's Convent was discovered by Patrolman Barry Dunn who was on foot patrol in the area at about 3:10 a.m.

Nine pieces of fire apparatus responded to a bell alarm in charge of Chief Maines. On possible site for a Grand Union supermarket.

Gardiner Homeowners...Off the Ground

By WADE BURKHART

GARDINER — The Gardiner Homeowners' Association got off the ground Thursday night, electing temporary officers and setting some procedural rules.

The association is brand new. About 100 people attended the organizational meeting.

Dr. Francis Echlin said the association started with conversation between himself and Carleton Mabee, a professor at the State University College at New Paltz. Echlin said they were both disturbed about trailer park proposals in their immediate areas, and formed the idea of a homeowners' association to safeguard the township and provide for orderly growth.

Interested people were contacted, according to Echlin, and the groundwork done.

The association demonstrated its determination to be independent by ruling Thursday that no elected or appointed official of the town could serve the association as an officer or member of the executive committee, unless he resigned his office.

Association membership is limited to residents of Gardiner who own homes. Dues were set at $3 a year.

Elected as officers were Williams, president; Mabee, vice president; Duty Hall, treasurer; and Philip Carta, secretary. Mabee, who along with Echlin has served as a nominating committee, presented a slate of 11 candidates for the executive committee. There were four additional nominations from the floor, and it was decided to elect all 15.

The officers and committee men elected Thursday will serve for a term of three months. They are charged with drawing up the bylaws for the association, and will represent the association on what many people felt were some very important issues.

The large senior citizen trailer park proposed for the Cohn property and zoning were two issues raised by many during the meeting. People were generally against the trailer park, and for zoning.

Alexander Soutar, representing the planning board, said no variances had been granted from Gardiner's stop gap zoning ordinance, which requires an acre for each trailer. The proposed senior citizen trailer park would require half-acre plots.

Soutar also said zoning was coming along well. He said his board expected to have a proposed ordinance ready by the end of July, and a public hearing on the ordinance could be held in August.

According to Williams, the association will serve as a watchdog of town government, providing information to its members and making the association's feelings known to the town board.

Richard Ryan, who was elected to the executive committee, said the association should investigate town officials.

John Bonagura, a town councilman, said he resented Ryan's implication that the town board was doing things for personal gain. Ryan said the town board had demonstrated "incompetence", and that was what he wanted investigated.

Town Supervisor George Mastic defended his lengthy administration, and said the town board had saved the taxpayers money "in every way possible", and held taxes down. He said he would be glad to debate Ryan at any time.

WHITA Directors Opposed To Executive Sessions

KINGSTON — The Board of Directors of the We've Had It Taxpayers Association (WHITA) of Ulster County has gone on record as opposing executive sessions of The Ulster County Legislature.

"This is where important issues are decided and the public and news media should be allowed to attend," WHITA president Alice Tipp said after the board's recent meeting.

She said that the "secrecy" behind the county charter was discussed by WHITA two years ago, and that the group went on record then as being opposed to the charter unless revisions were made in it.

"We are now awaiting the revisions before we can voice our approval," Mrs. Tipp said.

Among the revisions in the charter called for by WHITA were: to limit county legislature membership to nine, competitive written and physical examinations for all appointed positions, with candidates for these positions required to meet Civil Service standards; Confirmation of all appointments by a roll call vote of the legislature; Removal of appointees by a two-thirds vote of the legislature.

Mrs. Tipp announced the appointment of Fred Hafbauer, Michael Antonelli, Peter Harp, and Frank Reis to serve with her on the committee on membership and election of directors. The group will meet in New Paltz tonight, to form plans. Election of directors will be held Sept. 13 at a plate to be announced later.

WHITA also plans to send delegates to Albany later this month for a statewide meeting of Voice of the Taxpayers Inc., with which WHITA is affiliated, Mrs. Tipp said.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices were firm in today's stock market after two days of gains.

Advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange held a moderate lead over declining ones.

In the news background was a Commerce Department report that the unemployment rate in June was down to 5.5 per cent, compared with 5.9 per cent in the previous three months.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported wholesale prices rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 6 per cent, the same rate as in May.

Analysts said the market is sensitive to any economic indicators and that investors were watching the government reports carefully.

Floor traders emphasized the point that institutional investors were active in Thursday's trading, as evidenced by the fact there were 143 blocks of 10,000 shares or more, compared with a revised 112 Wednesday. Glamour issues were prominent in the block trades.

Olive Paper Drive

TOWN OF OLIVE

The Olive Highway Dept. trucks will make a special collection of paper, bottles and aluminum non-seal cans along all town roadsides early Saturday morning, July 8. Residents are asked to firmly tie all papers, caps and any metal removed — and all non-seal aluminum cans, and to put them out Friday night if at all possible.

For the first time, Town of Olive has the use of a glass crusher and glass will be crushed at the town garage. A special demonstration of glass crushing will be given as a part of the Olive Econ Commission's exhibit and demonstration, at the Old Dutch Country Fair, to be held at Lester Davis Park, July 15, Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A special booth is planned for the Fair with environmental conservation materials and an opportunity for the residents to read and sign the Encon Pledge. The booth will be set up and manned by Richard Negron and his committee. Those interested in organic gardening and composting will be able to have questions answered by several organic gardeners who have volunteered to be present and help.

Ruth Hilf, chairman, Olive Econ Commission, said, "Our recycling drives to date, have relieved the town dump of tons of materials, and so reduced the dumping problem. As more residents become involved, we can do much to relieve our recyclable wastes problem."

Rosendale Commission Joins Campaign

ROSENDALE — The Rosendale Conservation Commission will join this weekend's county-wide recycling drive by sponsoring a depot at the Rosendale Shopping Center Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Newspapers and magazines, glassware and aluminum will be collected at the site. The commission requests that bottles be washed and that any metal caps and rings be removed. Newspapers and magazines should be bundled in packages weighing less than 25 pounds.

Justice Cooke Guest Speaker

KINGSTON — Mrs. Maurice Hinchey, general chairman of the Ulster County Democratic Committee Fund Raising Dinner, announced today that the guest speaker for this affair would be Justice Lawrence H. Cooke of Monticello.

The gala affair will be held at 7 p.m., Saturday, July 8 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. A smorgasbord with champagne will be served followed by dancing to the music of the Charlie Lee Orchestra. Tickets can be obtained from any town chairman or city committeeman.

Justice Cooke of Monticello is serving on the Appellate Division, Third Department, having been first designated to that bench on December 31, 1968 and redesignated on Dec. 29, 1971. He was elected to the Supreme Court in 1961. Before that, he was elected County Judge and Surrogate of Sullivan County in 1953 and re-elected with the support of all parties in 1959. He is now completing his 19th year as a judge. A substantial number of his decisions have been affirmed by the Court of Appeals.

Nixon Accuses Dems Of Causing Inflation

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon called it to blame for it. In his economic experts to Treasury Secretary George P. Schultz, Consumer Advisor Virginia Knauer, Herbert Stein food prices today after promising to veto any excessive of the Council of Economic election-year spending by Congress. The President's moves were aimed at curbing inflation—one of the most persistent problems of his administration—and setting the stage for the forthcoming campaign debate over who union officials; chain store accused the Democrats of operators and food processors engaging in an election-year and producers to enlist their strategy of passing popular but support in halting mushrooming fiscally irresponsible measures. He said Congress already had exceeded Nixon's budget limitations for the fiscal year, which began last week, by more than $6 billion.

Mounting Criticism At NAACP Conclave

DETROIT, (UPI)—Two Nixon aides and black Michigan Republicans tried Thursday to quell the criticism of President Nixon's handling of black people's problems, which has dominated the 63rd annual NAACP convention.

But Herbert Hill, national NAACP labor director, replied by accusing the government of spending "billions of dollars in federal funds to directly subsidize racial discrimination in employment."

A major question still hanging as the convention of the nation's oldest and largest civil rights organization went into its final day today was whether a proposed resolution calling for President Nixon's defeat in the November election would be voted on by the 2,300 delegates. Convention leaders had met Wednesday behind closed doors to discuss it.

Although the vast majority of blacks vote for Democrats, the NAACP only once in its history has taken sides in a presidential election. That was in 1964 when it opposed Republican Barry Goldwater.

Hill said the rate of black unemployment in urban areas is between 20 and 36 per cent and more than 50 per cent among "black ghetto youth." "This state of affairs is the result of the administration's economic policies, the failure to enforce the legal prohibitions against job discrimination and the expenditure of billions of dollars in federal funds to directly subsidize racial discrimination in employment," Hill said.

Earlier in the day, Samuel Johnson, assistant secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), and Samuel Simmons, an official of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), denied charges that the Nixon administration inefficiently managed housing for poor persons.

"What we have been trying to explain to the delegates is that 50 branches of the association had housing programs and HUD is responsible for pumping dollars into these programs," Johnson said.

Ellis J. Bonner, president of the black Wolverine State Republican Organization, read a statement authorized by his organization's executive board lashing out at the NAACP criticism.

Bonner accused NAACP lead ers of trying "to make the NAACP into a political organization which violates the spirit, if not the letter of the NAACP charter." He criticized the convention for passing a resolution condemning the President's stand against busing to achieve racial balance in schools.

In addition to reviewing progress of his domestic programs, Nixon also met Thursday with two military experts who recently made independent reviews of the situation in Vietnam in preparation for resumption of peace talks next Thursday in Paris.

County Liberals Endorse McGovern

KINGSTON, N.Y. (UPI)—In an unprecedented action, the Ulster County Liberal Party endorsed Sen. George McGovern's candidacy for President of the United States at a meeting of its executive committee Thursday.

Donald I. Short, chairman of the Ulster County Liberal Party, explained that the action came about "because the results of the Democratic Party primaries conclusively indicate McGovern's nomination is a logical conclusion and the choice of the rank and file enrollees."

Ordinarily the Liberal Party waits until after the Democratic Convention takes place to support a candidate.

Short said his committee urges that the McGovern delegates "stand fast" and that the uncommitted delegates come to McGovern's support now.

"To give the Stop-McGovern delegates the veto power, and the selection of any other candidate who would have to rely heavily on the Wallace delegates attending the convention would be self-defeating and anti-liberal." The nomination of any other candidate who would benefit by such a decisive role played by the Wallace delegates would lose the support of the liberal and progressive community of our nation. His defeat would be certain," Short said.

"The Liberal Party considers the nomination of Sen. McGovern an accomplished fact, and is prepared to support him in the coming election to help unify the democratic and progressive forces for the defeat of Nixon."

In other business, the election of Carolyn Short to the State Executive Committee of the Liberal Party at the organizational meeting of the State Committee held on June 27, was announced. Mrs. Short is the wife of Donald I. Short who is also candidate for the State Senate in the 40th district. She is also secretary of the Ulster County Liberal Party and a past treasurer.

Executives Relected to BOCES Posts

NEW APLTZ—Two long-time board members were reelected to executive posts at the reorganizational meeting of Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services Thursday night.

George Langwick of New Paltz was reelected president of the BOCES board and Benjamin Miller of Ellenville was renamed vice president.

Louis Cordone was appointed clerk and purchasing agent; Laura Braisted, treasurer and Philip Schunk, attorney.

In other action, the board accepted the resignation of Charles Fous of Saugerties and appointed Wesley Maxwell of Saugerties to serve out his board term until election in April.

The board approved selling to the highest bidder obsolete cosmetology equipment. Members also implemented a tax sheltered annuity program for all BOCES employees.

Two teachers were hired by the board. They are Terrance O'Donnell, vocational teacher of electrical trades in the federally funded pre-vocational program and Joseph Ines, vocational teacher in the printing area.

Dr. Jack L. Roosa, executive officer of Ulster BOCES, noted that the pre-vocational program recently received state approval.

The Bankers Trust was designated as the official bank and The Daily Freeman as the official newspaper. The fourth Thursday of the month will continue to be the regular meeting date. The next meeting of the board will be July 27.

The 'Gassed Green' Tomatoes

WASHINGTON — Florida tomato growers have been scheming behind closed doors, under the auspices of the Agriculture Department, to keep vine-ripened Mexican tomatoes out of U.S. supermarkets.

Instead of the juicy red tomatoes from Mexico, the growers want to push off on the housewives low-grade domestic tomatoes that are so green they have to be gassed with ethylene to make them look palatable.

These "gassed greens," as they're called, actually cost more than the ripened Mexican tomatoes. The Agriculture Department is conspiring with the tomato growers, therefore, to restrict Mexican imports.

Fact-finding committees have been established to study the problem. The hitch is that the Agriculture Department has appointed tomato growers as the fact finders. The press and public have been barred from these fact-finding sessions. We have obtained the transcript, however, of a typical discussion.

"Well," drawled one Florida tomato tycoon, "the thing we're looking at, we're trying to help the Florida growers in eliminating our competition. Let's face it, they're trying to eliminate our competition by eliminating it out of Mexico."

Agreed another tomato man: "We're not here to satisfy them. We're here to satisfy ourselves and get a little more money."

"They (the Mexicans) want to keep going," growled a third grower. "We're going to have to keep cutting them out."

Meanwhile, the Agriculture Department has reached a "recommended decision" to restrict tomato imports from Mexico.

An Agriculture spokesman assured us that the "recommended decision" was based on thousands of pages of testimony and exhibits. Competent sources say, however, that the department had hoped to appease the tomato growers at the expense of the tomato eaters.

Footnote: Senate Consumer Chairman Frank Moss, D-Utah, will conduct an investigation. In a confidential memo to his staff, he claimed it's commonplace for "Agriculture to ignore the interest of consumers in order to serve its agribusiness clients, but this situation seems on the face of it a more-than-routine outrage."

Travel Loophole

With Republican cloth-coat frugality, President Nixon last year sternly ordered everyone in his Administration to refrain from first class travel.

But the highly publicized order was so ambiguously worded by the White House bureaucracy that not even the President's loyal cabinet members are paying any attention to it.

Every cabinet officer we checked on uses first-class, often taking along various staff members. Even such lesser potentates as assistant agriculture secretaries and the Bureau of Mines director invariably travel up front.

President Nixon's order was translated into a regulation by the White House's Office of Management and Budget. It starts off well enough with a stern decree that "persons who use commercial air carriers for transportation should use less than first class accommodations..."

But then comes the fatal qualifying phrase, "with due regard to efficient conduct of government business and the travelers convenience, safety and comfort."

These final words, of course, nullify the regulation. It means everyone should travel tourist unless it's inconvenient or uncomfortable.

Six-foot-eight-inch Rogers Morton, the Interior secretary, immediately seized upon the comfort loophole to justify riding up front with the rich folks.

"He's big," said a sympathizing spokesman. "He doesn't fit in a coach seat."

Over at the Commerce Department, aides admit that Secretary Pete Peterson flies first class "most of the time." But a spokesman pointed proudly to the fact that Peterson had flown tourist coming back from Philadelphia the other day.

We checked with the airline and learned it was an all-tourist flight.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, the former cereal executive who is accustomed to the comforts of life, always flies first class. His aides, who usually fly up front with him, invoke the claim that it's necessary "for efficient conduct of government business." All the assistant secretaries fly first class, too.

The cost of the luxury travel isn't immense by today's staggering standards of government waste. But this question is raised: If these men can't be trusted to carry out the President's small economies, how can they be trusted with major sums?

New Breed Delegates

At the first meeting of New Jersey delegates to the Democratic National Convention July 10, the state party chairman who presided had spoken a few words when he was interrupted. The mayor of a moderate sized city asked the presiding officer, who had held the chairmanship for three years, if he would mind telling the assemblage his identity and from where he came. The question was apt, for most of the delegates had never heard of their party's chairman.

This instance is typical, not only of New Jersey, but of most of the others in the nation in this year of strange admixtures of party delegates to a national convention. The chairman will not be going to Miami Beach as a delegate. He ran pledged to Hubert H. Humphrey and lost. The same thing happened to the chairmen of powerful county committees, and to the president of the state federation of labor. U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr., and former Governors Richard J.

Hughes and Robert B. Meyner, will not go, either. They opted for Edmund S. Muskie.

The entire 109-member New Jersey delegation includes just one county chairman one member of Congress and a handful of state legislators. The rest have given way, in many cases, to long hair, sandals, a fierce concentration on issues and a studied egalitarianism.

Four years ago, none of the state delegates was under the age of 30, 9 per cent were black and 12 per cent women. This year, 24 are under 30, 12 per cent are black and 38 per cent women. Even these ratios do not meet the precise reform guidelines, but they are a beginning. There is little of the follow-the-leaderism, boss-dominated delegation of old. Control of the delegation is very much in the air.

The new breed delegates are a force unto themselves. They promise surprises and perhaps anguish before they endorse their platform and select their national ticket.

Cautious Test of Unity

One more tense international area, in which the United States has a vested interest, is cautiously testing the climate for the beginning of unity. Premier Kim Il Sung of North Korea has said for the first time that he is willing to meet with South Korean President Park Chung Hee, to discuss possible easing of tensions between their two states.

Marshal Kim's proposal on reduction of the size of the armed forces of the North and South Parallel—ideas that have been put forward in the past by the United Nations command and by South Korea—had been firmly rejected by the North. If the two Koreas can find an accommodation between themselves 19 years after their armistice, then there is hope that a cease-fire between two Vietnams can be followed by an accommodation much sooner between the two Vietnams.

The United States has an authorized strength of 44,000 troops in South Korea. The Republic of South Korea has a force of 670,000. North Korea, with less than half the population of the South, has 400,000.

Kim suggests he is ready to trim his troops to less than 100,000 if the South will do the same, "as a prelude to peacefully unifying the country and against resorting to use of force." He does not give any formula for reunification. A plebiscite would be expected to give the more populous South an advantage.

"When the peace agreement is concluded, the U. S. troops must pull out of South Korea, the danger of war will be removed, and accordingly there will be no more pretext for U. S. troops to stay," Kim said. True, if the peace is made and acceptable to the two Koreas. Despite our losses in the Korean war, a pacification and reunification would be cautiously watched in Washington for dangerous openings to aggression. But it could be an expression of the Nixon doctrine of Asiatics settling their own affairs.

STUDENT CARE-ATHON—When a favorite teacher was found to need a costly, life-saving kidney machine, 25 spunky high school students in Clinton, N. J., pooled their love for basketball, their greatest resource, into a drive for donations. They undertook a round-the-clock, seven-day game, inviting donors to pledge money each day, they keep the ball in play. They are getting many donations for the spunk and their devotion to their teacher.

The one to watch is the Quiet Man. If his emotional control is too good, he could be dangerous. He bottles his rancor and venom until the cork blows. Then, for a few moments or a few hours, he is a murderous maniac. Afterward, he is calm and looks upon the carnage as though it were perpetrated by someone else.

MICHAEL MASON 51. Quiet family man living in Florida. Seldom shared his problems with anyone. On May 2nd, drove a golf cart out to 10th tee of Woodlands Country Club, watched Henry Rubino putt out, then fired five shots into Rubino's face. Mason had borrowed $2,500 from Rubino, a loan shark. The money had been repaid, but Rubino told Mason he still owed $2,500 in interest. "I own you," Rubino said. "I get half of everything you make." The sucker accepted the humiliation quietly. Too quietly.

LEO HELD 40. Father of four. Pennsylvania millworker. School-board member. Enjoyed being a Boy Scout leader. Liked to listen; seldom asserted himself. Five years ago, walked into Lock Haven mill and shot to death five co-workers, killed a neighbor, wounded seven. Police killed him.

CHARLES J. WHITMAN 25. Happily married. One-time altar boy. The youngest Eagle Scout in Boy Scout history. Loved his mother so much, he had her move near University of Texas campus, where he studied. Strong quiet type. Pried himself on never "exploding" in a dispute.

Six years ago, stabbed his mother to death as she slept. Went home, stabbed his wife, typed calm notes confessing he loved both. In morning, climbed to campus tower and with an arsenal. Clubbed old lady receptionist to death, barricaded tower, took careful aim and killed 14 persons on campus, wounded 31. Whitman was killed by police.

JAMES McBRAIR 27. Grew up as good farm boy. Accepted bars from wife and in-laws quietly. Father of two. Walked into a dark cabin he bought near Wautoma, Wisconsin, on a Sunday night five years ago. Had .22 semi-automatic rifle.

The man who could not be ruffled fired at everything that moved. Killed baby sitter, father-in-law, sister-in-law. Was followed outside by sobbing wife who begged: "Let me get you some help." Shot her. Followed her back inside, emptied 15-shot clip into her body. Told writer Bruce Porter he still loves her, but cannot remember what she looked like.

HOWARD UNRUH. The quiet Bible reader. Lived small life in a small house in Camden, N.J. Left it one morning and walked slowly up the street, shooting shoppers. Slowly, carefully, sent 13 strangers to their eternal reward in 10 minutes. He remained extraordinarily quiet in court, and just as controlled in prison.

LEE HARVEY OSWALD Seldom held a conversation with anyone. Refused to allow Russian wife to learn English. Refused conversation with boy who drove him to work in Dallas unless the topic was children. Once told his wife he admired President John F. Kennedy. Shot him to death.

DUANE POPE 22. President of high school class. Modest athlete. Admired for silent mysterious smile. Seven years ago, walked into bank at Big Springs, Nebraska, with revolver, softly ordered three employees to lie face down, calmly shot them through back of head.

SIRHAN SIRHAN Butt of gentle family jokes because of his self-imposed isolation. Enjoyed loneliness, kept a diary. Sirhans lived in Los Angeles; parents Arab Moslems. The quiet son waited in kitchen of big hotel to shoot Robert F. Kennedy to death.

The list is almost endless. Is there a psychological lesson to be drawn from the Quiet Man? I doubt it. Calvin Coolidge seldom said anything, and became President of the United States. All of us know co-workers and members of the family who are not given to much more than a smile and a nod per day.

The potential killer — especially the mass murderer — wears no sign that he is approaching a violent explosion. Even he is not aware of it until it is too late. Once he is committed, he usually proceeds calmly and methodically.

If he lives through the blood bath, he usually returns to the soft avoidance of conversation. He seldom displays remorse. If pressed, he says he hasn't the remotest idea what made him do it.

He feels pressure, but exults in his ability to control himself. There are dark, still unexplored valleys of the mind...

Bruce Blossat Says

Comparing Mc and Barry

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It means little to characterize the front-running Democrat, Sen. George McGovern, as the "Goldwater of the left." But a comparison of their campaign situations does offer some instructive insight.

In 1964, Sen. Barry Goldwater won the Republican presidential nomination because a substantial proportion of the GOP leadership wanted him.

His support included a crucial party element, Taft-style conservatives who truly belonged in the center. Though these forces deplored what they saw as excesses of zeal among Goldwater's far rightwing backers, they were weary of moderate candidates. These they saw as "me-too" imitators of the Democrats.

There was, of course, much opposition to Goldwater from the moderate or progressive wing of his party. The key figures were governors like Nelson Rockefeller of New York, William Scranton of Pennsylvania, George Romney of Michigan, Mark Hatfield of Oregon.

Just one trouble. They could never get together, and no one of them could ever muster impressive support. They had glamour and high visibility, but it was misleading. It never translated into votes and delegates to stop Goldwater.

Meantime, Goldwater, aided by cadres of dedicated young activists who put together a superb organization, piled up an enormous delegate lead in the non-primary states. His late-hour primary victory over Rockefeller in California really was his only good one, yet in the circumstances it was all he needed.

Set McGovern's effort beside all this. He, too, has those dedicated cadres, who in fact are more numerous and more skillful by far than those laboring for Goldwater in 1964.

Beyond the parallel, however, differences begin to appear. Helped by a multiplicity of candidates who have divided the vote, McGovern has won 10 primaries against Goldwater's unimpressive handful. Together with the delegate harvests produced by the cadres in the non-primary states, McGovern's victories have put him near nomination.

Yet the success cannot conceal some glaring gaps. Unlike Goldwater, McGovern has not won to his side large elements of his party's establishment. Far from being ready to try something new, as were the Taft conservatives in 1964, the standard Democratic leaders for the most part are bitterly opposed to McGovern.

While the moderates were saying in 1964 that Goldwater was a loser, his conservative backers were not convinced. Their counterparts in the Democratic center today loudly proclaim that McGovern is a loser — "too radical," too thinly based for all his victories and his delegates.

The votes cast in 1972 gives their argument support. Generally speaking, the crowded Democratic presidential field that has helped McGovern get on top in some primaries has also assured that his voting percentage would be just a modest part of the whole. And he has won some light-vote primaries almost by default.

Again, though the Republicans have nothing comparable to labor's muscle and money for campaigning, it is not insignificant that the potent labor Democrats are not with McGovern in force.

McGovern's men think the swarms of young activists who got him this far can get him past President Nixon, too. Maybe. But Goldwater's activists found winning an election much harder than getting the nomination against an unorganized opposition.

McGovern may find it the same. He may need more than lip service from labor's troops.

Two Youths Sought in Motel Holdup

KERHONKSON
Two youths were sought today by State Police in connection with the investigation of a holdup that took place at 9:45 p.m. Thursday at Martha's Motel on Route 44-55 in this community.

Senior BCI Investigator Donald P. Trotta of the Ellenville State Police, who investigated with other troopers, said Mrs. Irene Rosola, wife of the owner of the motel, was alone when two white youths about 17 entered and inquired about a room for the night.

Suddenly one of the pair allegedly pulled a butcher knife he had concealed under his clothing and held the woman at bay, while the other took between $16 and $20 from the cash register.

The youths fled on foot. Later, Mrs. Rosola told investigators she heard the door of a car slam and then heard a motor running. She did not see a car.

Participating in the investigation were BCI Investigator Richard J. O'Hara and other BCI officers and uniformed troopers.

Authorities Investigating Area Accidents

KINGSTON
Area authorities investigated several personal injury traffic accidents that occurred Thursday and early today.

Kingston police reported 11-year-old Donald Feller, of 102N Rondout Gardens was injured shortly before 3 p.m. Thursday when the bicycle he was riding was involved in a mishap with a car near his home.

The boy was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance. He sustained abrasions and possible back injuries. Police said the vehicle involved was operated by Sharyn Hummer of 108-O Rondout Gardens. A one-car accident at 3:15 a.m. today on North Drive, Glenrie, was investigated by Trooper J. H. Ingellis of the Hurley station. Police said Stanley Rebelowsky, 51, of Saugerties, was driving his car along the road when it left the pavement and hit a pole. The driver sustained mouth injuries.

Rebelowsky was cited for driving while intoxicated, troopers reported. He was arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Richard Alberstadt, who adjourned hearing until Tuesday, July 11.

New Paltz Town Police reported a pedestrian-car accident occurred at 3:15 p.m. Thursday on Route 299 at Duzine Road. Patrolman Louis Olson's report noted that Henry A. Hudson, 17, of 1 Duzine Road was allegedly making a left turn from that road entering traffic on Route 299 when the left front fender of his car reportedly hit Mrs. Charlotte

City Burglary Hearing Adjourned Until Monday

KINGSTON assistant district attorney. A preliminary hearing for Douglas Perry, 23, of Saugerties, who was arrested late in June on 12 counts of burglary third degree, began Thursday before City Judge Hubert A. Richter, who adjourned further proceedings until Monday.

Seven witnesses for the prosecution, whose homes or business places were involved in the police investigation of the city burglaries were called to testify by John T. Dall Vechia, burglarized and they gave estimates of what was missing. None could say who entered the home or business places.

Two boys, 13 and 14, who were accused with Perry in connection with many of the burglaries, were advised of their rights to have counsel by Judge Richter, because presently they were considered accomplices with Perry.

John J. Schick, counsel for Perry, moved the court to assign counsel for the two boys and Judge Richter noted the appointments would be made prior to the adjourned date, July 10.

Other charges involving the two youths relating to sexual acts are pending in court against Perry.

Perry had been held in bail totaling $29,000. In court Tuesday Attorney Schick's request for reduction of the total bail was granted and it was reduced to $8,500.

Unemployment Claims Down

KINGSTON Arlensky said the decline was due to expiration of a large number of claims filed in February, when the emergency extended benefits program went into effect.

Unemployment insurance claims at the Kingston office of the New York State Employment Service declined by 2,200 in June.

Milton Arlensky of the NYSES office revealed that total claims for June were 11,175. The corresponding figure in May was 13,395.

Arlensky attributed most of the decline to a pickup in seasonal and resort employment.

Extended benefits, 13 weeks of unemployment insurance payments added onto the 26 weeks of basic benefits, remained almost unchanged. Claims for June were 1,605. The May total was $1,615.

Emergency extended benefits, an additional 13 weeks of payments added to the program by Presidential executive order, showed a sharp decline. The June figure was 1,181, down from 2,160 in May.

New Exhibition by Woodstock Artists at Polari Gallery

The Polari Gallery in Woodstock will present a new exhibition by two talented young Woodstock artists, Gary Hill and Donna Albright. An opening party and reception for the artists will be held Sunday, July 9 at 4 p.m. The public is invited. The exhibition will continue through July 22.

The gallery's ample exhibition space provides a splendid background for gallery-goers to view the large welded steel and screen constructions of Gary Hill and the drawings on canvas of Donna Albright.

Hill, who has his first one-man show at the Polari last season, creates exciting original floor, wall and hanging pieces. His slyly humorous Let It Slide construction, consisting of three layers of screen dipped in different colors of enamel and aluminum paint to create a metallic effect, hangs free with two poles leaning against it.

A native of California, Hill has studied at the Art Students League and with Bruce Dorfman. He has exhibited at the Ryder Gallery in Los Angeles and in New York at the Walcott-Fields Gallery. Locally he has shown at the Parnassus Square Gallery, the Art Students League, The Woodstock Artists Association and in the Young Designers Show at Ulster County Community College. He was awarded the Arnold Blanch

Memorial Scholarship in 1969. The artist, Donna Albright, exhibits drawings and collages on paper and raw canvas of exceptional delicacy and skill. Her "Landscapes of the Mind" with their delicate, complex textures, carry such evocative titles as "Anemos" and "Talaria".

Miss Albright was an Art Major at the University of California in Los Angeles and has shown her work at UCLA and the University of Riverside, the latter by invitation. She studied at the Institute del Arte, San Miguel de Allende in Mexico. When traveling in India, she became interested in Indian design and joined with a group of young British and American artists to design and export western clothes using Indian fabrics. Some of the mysticism of India has undoubtedly pervaded her work. Miss Albright has exhibited locally at the Woodstock Artists Association. The Polari Gallery, which continues to represent the works of both nationally known artists as well as those of younger talents, is located next to the Woodstock Playhouse on Route 212 in Woodstock.

FEW BARGAINS IN SUMMER FRUITS

Adverse weather conditions raised havoc with several summer fruit crops this year. Shoppers can expect increases on most fruits, particularly peaches, sweet cherries, pears, and apricots. Among the more reasonable are plums, nectarines, cantaloupes, and watermelons, says Louis K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist.

New Jersey sustains severe peach losses. The New Jersey peach crop is expected to be the smallest since 1938. Look for New Jersey peaches from late July to early August, but expect few after that.

Several Western fruits in short supply — N sharply higher cherry prices have shocked you this year. It is because supplies from the Western states are down 40 per cent. Freeze damage was extensive, and many areas are reporting poor crops.

The California prune crop was also hit hard by weather: record-high temperatures during bloom resulted in a poor set of fruit.

Apricots arrived at the markets about two weeks earlier than usual, but there will be fewer of them this year.

Frost and poor pollination have caused a substantial drop in the production of Bartlett pears in California, Washington, and Oregon. Production is forecast at 21 per cent below a year earlier. Nectarines and plums — a bright spot in the fruit picture — The output of nectarines in California should be slightly above the last two years. Fruit has been ripening ahead of schedule, and supplies should be heavy during July and August.

California plums are also expected to be plentiful during July. Quality is reported to be good, making plums and nectarines wise fruit choices at this time.

Plenty of Watermelons and cantaloupes — In addition to plums, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has named watermelons to the Plentiful Foods list for July.

Spring cantaloupe plantings were moderately larger than a year ago. Local markets have been receiving good quality melons from California, Arizona, and Texas. Harvest of the spring crop is expected to end in early July, at which time the summer crop from nearby areas will be our source. Prices for cantaloupes should reach their seasonal low during July.

There hasn't been a week since "Charley's Aunt" first trod a stage on February 29, 1892 before a private audience at the Suffolk Hunt Club in Bury-St. Edmunds, England, that "she" has not been cavorting before an audience somewhere in the world. There have been at least 49 translations of the play, including Japanese, Zulu, Gaelic, Russian, and Esperanto. It opens in English Tuesday, July 11 at The Woodstock Playhouse, and runs through Sunday, July 16th. With the exception of the Sunday night 7:30 curtain, the play begins at 8:40 each evening.

"Charley's Aunt" has been broadcast on radio and television, filmed, and turned into a sensationally popular musical comedy. "Where's Charley?" It's been a vehicle for Rex Harrison, Noel Coward, John Gielgud, Ray Bolger, and Jack Benny among others.

Woodstock's director, Kent Gravett, currently on the faculty of City College, New York City, has assembled a cast of great ability. Thomas Newman, of stage, television and film renown, will play Col. Sir Francis Chesney, Virginia Downing, with many British as well as American credits, will play Donna Lucia; Monica Moran, whose been seen in television commercials among other things, will be Kitty. Rounding out the cast will be: Christopher Hastings as Jack Chesney, James Hummert as Wickham, Bruce Weitz as Fancourt Babberly, Bernard Passeltiner as Brasset, Caryl Coan as Amy, and Christiana Brinton as Elia.

Old as she is, M. Edgar Rosenblum, executive producer of The Woodstock Playhouse, points out that Clive Barnes of The New York Times urged everyone to see "Charley's Aunt" at least once every 10 years.

In just one week "Dames at Sea" will start a two week engagement at the Playhouse. For information and reservations for theater performances, as well as the Monday evening concerts and the children's programs, contact The Woodstock Playhouse, P.O. Box 269, Woodstock.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

Outdoor Refreshment Service. Dear Heloise:

I had a number of those wire beverage holders (the type that you stick in the ground beside your lawn chairs, etc. to hold a glass), but they couldn't be used on the patio for obvious reasons.

I got the idea of filling several cottage cheese cartons with cement.

I let this set for a while and then stuck one of the holders in the center of the cement in each carton.

I allowed this to harden for about three days and then tore the cartons off the cement.

They didn't look too great in the natural state but, after I painted the cement, they were just as cute as could be and oh, so very practical.

In this way they can be used not only in the yard but on the patio as well . . .

Friends who see them are amazed.

HVP Plans Full Day's Entertainment Saturday

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic in co-operation with the Parks and Recreation Commission of Dutchess County has scheduled a full day's entertainment for Saturday, July 8, at Wilcox Park. Bring your family, bathing suits and a picnic — and enjoy! A Contest of Bands, rock, folk, country, starting at 2 p.m., for one-half hour per band ending at 6 and competing for prizes of $100, $50 and $25 will be followed by a Philharmonic Showmobile concert of light classical music at 8 p.m. that should send everyone home singing. Allan Miller, guest conductor for the Philharmonic will direct the orchestra in a program including a Vivaldi Concerto for Two Trumpets, Suppe's "Light Cavalry Overture," "Farandole" by Bizet, "Pops Hoedown," Rossini's "William Tell Overture" (remember the Lone Ranger's theme song?) and more by such well loved composers as Beethoven and Charles Ives.

Miller, who will be conducting a series of eight concerts for the Philharmonic this summer, is former music director of Channel 13 and associate conductor of the Denver Symphony Orchestra. He has also conducted the Minnesota, Los Angeles and Baltimore orchestras, the August Mozart Festival and the Late-Late Concerts in New York City. Miller is also the first recipient of a grant from the newly established Public Media Department of the National Endowment for the Arts and Humanities for the purpose of enhancing music on television. With his wife, the former Marie Wynn, Miller has collaborated on several publications including "The Fireside Book of Children's Songs," "What Shall We Do Allie Galloo," and activity book for children, and "Beginning Piano for Adults."

After the concert the Commission of Parks and Recreation will present an aerial display of fireworks, beginning at 9:30 and lasting about half an hour.

Applications for the Band Competition are being accepted by Rusty Schaeffer through the offices of the County Executive; all bands: rock, country, Western, are invited to participate. As many as eight groups may compete July 8th; the contest will be extended to Saturday July 29 when the Philharmonic will present the Poughkeepsie Ballet Theatre on the Showmobile, if there are more than eight contestants.

This begins the Philharmonic's third summer of Showmobile Concerts at Wilcox Park, playing for a steadily growing audience of people who like music to be a natural extension of their lives. For a family there can be no better way of spending a week-end beach, boating and picnicking facilities plus a full day's planned entertainment. Plan to spend your Saturdays with the Philharmonic at Wilcox Park, July 8, 29 and again on August 19 when the West Point Military Band will finish off an afternoon of music with small band and instrumental groups.

DAVID BAR-ILLAN

Distinguished Pianist Slated To Perform at Maverick Hall

Israeli Pianist David Bar-Illan will perform on the Maverick Hall stage in Woodstock Sunday, July 9, at 3 p.m. in a varied program which will include Rameau, Chopin, Ben-Haim, Schubert and Liszt. It is a good cross-section of the piano literature from Rameau's Baroque to the contemporary of Ben-Haim.

While Bar-Illan's interpretations of the great classics of the repertoire have marked him as "a poet of the keyboard," he is equally at home in the modern idiom. He has introduced to U.S. and Europe many works of his Israeli countrymen such as Ben-Haim and Paul Starer.

Born in Haifa, Israel, Bar-Illan is a third generation Israeli. Music is an integral part of heritage; his father and grandfather were musicians and composers. He started his musical training in Haifa, and won a scholarship for New York's Juilliard School of Music at seventeen. The Israeli war of independence and the harrowing summer of the six day war interrupted his studies. When the war was over he completed his studies at Juilliard, and at the Mannes College of Music. He made his debut with New York Philharmonic under Bernstein in a performance of the Liszt Piano Concerto No. 1, to unanimous acclaim from the New York Press, at the invitation of the late great maestro Dimitri Mitropoulos, who discovered him in Israel when he guest-conducted the Israel Philharmonic with Bar-Illan as soloist.

In 1962 Bar-Illan made a sensational appearance as a replacement for the Russian virtuoso Emil Gilels in Amsterdam in the Liszt Concerto. The critics called it "a shattering experience." After these dramatic breakthroughs on the international stage Bar-Illan went from triumph to triumph. He has appeared with practically every major orchestra of the world. In addition he has made annual "sold out" recital tours of the U.S., Canada, and the major European and South American countries. He records for RCA in an extensive repertoire. Last season Bar-Illan played a recital in New York City and appeared as soloist with the American Symphony under Stocksky at Carnegie Hall. He opened the 1971-72 season of the Philharmonic with Pierre Boulez on the podium in Liszt's Malediction. He also had the distinction of giving the first piano recital at the new John F. Kennedy Center in Washington.

Included in his 1972-73 season are appearances with the Pittsburgh Symphony under Steinberg in Carnegie Hall and in Pittsburgh. When not on tour Bar-Illan makes his home in New York City with his wife and two children. For ticket information contact Basil Eliescu, Maverick Road, Woodstock.

Nothing Funny About TV's Sick Humor

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Please write something in your column about the sick humor that has become so popular on television. I refer to the skits in which they make fun of old people.

This type of comedy mocks and ridicules the feeble walk, faltering speech and the failing sight and hearing of the aged, many of whom have no other entertainment than watching television.

The elderly have earned a place of dignity in this land which they have built with their labor and supported with their money during their productive years. Sign me... FORTY-EIGHT AND GETTING THERE

DEAR FORTY-EIGHT: Nothing can become popular unless the majority of the people want it, which is a pretty sad commentary on our times. However, our humor has improved since comedians ridiculed foreigners and minority groups. We've come a long way, but we still have a long way to go. For immediate action, complain to the sponsors or the network.

DEAR ABBY: I am 32 years old, have been married for seven years, and have three children. My problem arises from my night out.

I bowl with the boys on Monday nights. On Fridays I bowl with my wife. I belong to one civic organization which meets every other Wednesday night. I have a sales job, which means I sometimes have to make a call in the evening, maybe once a week, but when this happens, I am always home by midnight.

Abby, when I come home from any of these evenings my wife throws the book at me like I came home at 4 a.m. smelling of booze and women. My wife always knows where I am and who I'm with.

She treats me like a mother would treat a son. I am a good husband, and I don't appreciate being bawled out and yelled at.

What do you think?

A GOOD BOY
DEAR BOY: If you refer to yourself as a good boy — that could be part of your problem. Start thinking of yourself as a good MAN. Let your wife know that you will not be intimidated. Stand up to her, MAN-style, and she may treat you like one.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me how to solve an embarrassing situation without losing some friends we have known for years. They are a couple in their mid-sixties who visit in our home for a week at a time.

We are happy to have our friends visit us, but I am so embarrassed by the actions of the husband I fear I will lose my temper and tell him off.

He comes to the breakfast table in his undershorts for one thing, and for another, if the bathroom is occupied, he knocks loudly on the door until he gets the other party out.

I have asked my husband to speak to this man, but he says he doesn't want to insult a guest in our home. The wife is a lovely patient person, but she will not criticize her husband either.

Have you any suggestions? UPSET HOSTESS
DEAR HOSTESS: If anyone is going to criticize him, it appears that you are elected.

Doing the Right Thing

Dear Mrs. Post:

My daughter became engaged, but she does not want an engagement party. I would like to send out announcements but was told by a few people that if you just send out announcements without giving a party it looks as if your asking for presents. I don't want this to happen. I would appreciate it if you would tell me what is the correct thing to do.

Mrs. O'Hare

Dear Mrs. O'Hare: Printed engagement announcements are not in the best taste. The correct way to make the announcement is by a notice in your local newspaper, and personal notes or calls to family and close friends.

For suggestions about to whom, when, how and what to give, you will find my booklet "Gifts and Giving" most helpful. To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman.

'Miss Reardon'
Superb Sipping

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

If you take an occasional drop of scotch, bourbon or vodka, you'll sip with pleasure the current Woodstock Playhouse production of "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little." And, if you're a teetotaler who sticks to lemonade or Kool-Aid, you'll find this highly polished and totally professional staging of the Paul Zindel play the season's best offering to date on the art colony stage.

"Miss Reardon" is so superbly acted and staged with such straight-forward and palatable professionalism that it should be preserved like a fine old wine, or in one, it doesn't matter which. The story has a heady tang: revolves around three sisters with a variety of problems that come tumbling out of the family cupboard much as the domestic paraphernalia once come clattering out of Fibber Magee and Molly's closet.

And the comparison is not that far-fetched. For "Miss Reardon" — while highly dramatic in thrust — also manages to be witty. Zindel's jokes are funny and, more to the point, flesh out the realism of his characters and his play.

There is no posturing for effect in this sympathetic account of the Reardon sisters: one who is prone to bourbon, one whose marriage is loveless, and one who has failed to grow up though now middle-aged. Zindel's dialogue speaks from conviction; is creative rather than contrived. His people are both desperate and funny . . . the way we all are at times — mortals who often feel doomed, human beings who find redemption in jest.

Incredibly good performances spark the Playhouse production, and credit must be sprinkled equally on the excellent cast and the inspired direction of Kent Gravett, making his first appearance at Woodstock in that position.

As the bourbon-loving Catherine Reardon, Jennie Ventress is a tippler to take to your heart and to suit anybody's taste. She is one of the most joyously uncorked personalities in entertainment annals — and you'll cheer when she devastates her detractors. Worth cheering, too, is the performance of Virginia Downing as Ceil, the married sister. Her role requires an officious nastiness (she's a former teacher turned school superintendent), and veteran actress Downing rates praise for making an unsympathetic part interesting and dramatic.

Geraldine Court, cast as Anna, the vegetarian and child-like third sister, gives vivid coloration to the role of a woman coping with mental problems; is defiantly crazy and innocently disturbed as the moment requires. Monica Moran as a busybody, social climbing neighbor is a scene stealer supreme.

"And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little" is pure stage dynamite. It utilizes pain and hilarity to make its point. And while you may laugh uproariously or giggle delightfully, you'll also find "Miss Reardon" a more sobering influence than its title suggests.

Director Gravett is to be admired for his handling of a production that plays better for the truth he has brought to it. And the Woodstock Playhouse cast is to be congratulated for a high degree of precision and poignancy, inspired clowning, vivacity, spontaneity and charm.

HOME and GARDEN PAGE

MOST HONORED GARDEN — This is the Year's Most Honored Garden — at the Stanley House of the Tryon Palace Restoration in New Bern, N. C. Mrs. Richard Nixon presented a special tribute to its sponsors and designers during ceremonies in connection with the American Association of Nurserymen's annual landscape awards. Original Stanley House, mutilated through modifications, was moved to its new site near Tryon Palace where an authentic Colonial setting was created with a unique formal "town-house" garden, enclosed by high, antique brick walls and a white picket fence.

The Green Thumb

Those Bitter Cukes

NAPLES, N.Y. Bitter Cucumbers: Last year several gardeners asked us what made their cucumbers bitter. Bitterness in cukes is a complicated thing. Some people are tasters — can taste the bitter factor, others cannot. In humans, tasting is dominant, and in order to taste or detect bitterness in cukes, you must have a certain genetic constitution in your own body and taste buds. The organic chemicals responsible for bitterness are not only in cukes, but also in squash and especially strong in some gourds. Strangely, bitter cukes attract the striped cucumber beetle and the 12 spotted cucumber beetle. On the other hand, they are more resistant to red spider mites than non-bitter cukes.

Many old-timers will tell you that the bitterness is in the end you break off the vine (not the blossom end. If you cut the top off, about 1/4 inch from the end before peeling, and rub the two cut surfaces together, you will "draw" out the bitter factor. Some feel that cukes get bitter if the soil is dry. They like plenty of moisture so they will develop fast. If they grow too slow, they will be bitter, many believe.

Free: Would you like to grow some non-bitter cucumbers? Dr. Henry Munger of Cornell University has been working with non-bitter cukes, and he has given us permission to offer seed free to gardeners who want to try this cucumber. Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for my packet of non-bitter cucumber seed. There's still time to sow and get a good crop.

Pine Needle Mulch: Do pine needles make a good mulch? Indeed. They do not break down readily because resins and turpentine counteract the work of bacteria and fungi.

From Kitchen to Garden
Convenience Items Aplenty

By Sheila and Allan Swenson You can make life sweeter this year and easier. Convenience ideas have moved from the kitchen to application around the garden. Horticultural firms have designed self-starting seed containers, preplanted, prefertilized bulb packages and other labor-saving products.

A few years back, Jiffy Pots took transplant shock out of your list of worries. You planted seedlings, pot and all. Now, Jiffy-7 makes seed starting even easier. They are compressed, fine-quality peat pots with fertilizer mixture, only 1/4-inch high. Add water and they expand to original 2-inch height, ready for seeds. Then, simply plant outdoors when weather is right and seedlings are off to a fast jump on spring.

Asparagus is a delicious perennial vegetable. Now you can start this tasty treat from seed in a Punch 'n' Gro kit. Simply punch holes in the planter unit and water. After seeds sprout, remove the clear plastic top and follow directions on the kit. When tall enough, you can transplant outdoors into a well-prepared bed for years of good asparagus eating in the future. But it does take two years to get production when you start with seeds.

These handy kits also feature Bibb lettuce and tomatoes to start indoors. Within weeks you'll be on the way to crisp, loose heads of delicately flavored lettuce. More vitamins than the iceberg types, too.

The far-sighted seed company also has introduced a unique Seed Tape. Seven vegetables and eight flower varieties are available on reel dispensers. Seeds are properly spaced in water soluble, organic tape for simple planting.

Vaughan's Seed Co. has introduced handy bulk packs of preplanted Caladiums and begonias. These peat-potted bulbs sprout fast and can be easily utilized in window boxes, garden corners or patio planters. The firm also offers containers of peat pots for use in starting seeds indoors.

Look around this year. Horticultural firms are making your gardening life easier than ever with new, handy, convenience products.

Fall . . . Shakeup Forecast

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — No matter what happens in the fall election, there will be a shake-up in the committee leadership in the legislature in the next session.

The process will be a fascinating one for political watchers, who anticipate considerable jousting among the lawmakers for chairmanships of prestigious committees.

The internecine battle is expected to be particularly pronounced in the Senate, where most of the committees are expected to have new leaders. This would occur even if the Republicans retain majority control of the Senate, which is considered likely.

Sen. Earl W. Brydges of Niagara Falls is retiring at the end of the year as majority leader, a job that is expected to be filled by Warren Anderson of Binghamton, now chairman of the Finance Committee.

There is some competition for the job from Sen. John Marchi of Staten Island and Sen. William F. Conklin of Brooklyn, but their New York City connections are said to be a detriment among a Republican conference dominated by upstaters.

Sen. John Hughes of Syracuse, the dean of Senate Republicans, says he doesn't want the job.

Assuming that Anderson is elected by his colleagues as majority leader, who will take over as Finance Committee chairman? The chairmanship of the Finance Committee is traditionally a stepping stone to majority leader and a desirable post.

Sen. John D. Caemmerer of East Williston was believed to have the backing of the Nassau County delegation, the largest voting bloc in the legislature.

There are a few lawmakers who have gained a hard-working reputation in their committee endeavors who may not want other committees. Among these persons are Sen. John Dunne of Garden City, very active in correctional work, and Sen. Bernard Gordon of Peekskill, who was caught in the no-fault insurance hassle of the last legislative session.

Sen. Thomas Laverne of Irondequoit, chairman of the Education Committee, was defeated in the primary election so that committee leadership is up for grabs. The chairmanship of the Codes Committee also is vacant, after the retirement of Sen. Dalwin Niles of Johnstown.

Lesser openings are the chairmanships of the Agriculture Committee and the Cities Committee.

Four chairmen of Assembly committees will leave at the end of the year: Frank Walkley of Castile, chairman of Governmental Operations; Lawrence Corbett of Fort Edward, chairman of Social Services; Frederick Warder of Geneva, chairman of labor; and Donald C. Shoemaker of Webster, chairman of agriculture.

'A Time to Punish'...Judge States

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — "Perhaps it's a time to start punishing criminals," Supreme Court Justice Sol Wachtler, Republican-Liberal candidate for the State Court of Appeals suggested Thursday to members of Kingston Kiwanis meeting at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

"Today, we have more criminals, more crime and more victims than ever before," he expalined deplorin, the fact that "Our system is not punishing, or deterring, or rehabilitating, and, a system which accomplishes none of these things cannot justify its own existence or long endure."

Introduced by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, the 41-year-old Long Islander used examples recalling that in 1970 there were 797 indictments for murder in the state. Only 52 persons were convicted of murder in some degree and only 49 of them received state prison sentences.

"When the odds are 15 to 1 that a person indicted for murder will not be convicted of murder, we delude ourselves if we believe that we have either punished or deterred."

Justice Wachtler, touching on the problem of drug addicts charged with felonies, took a strong stand regarding treatment of such persons. Calling them addicts who need rehabilitation, he said he believes they should be confined for treatment until they are completely rehabilitated and then, "bring them back to the courts to be tried for their crime."

"If we tried more cases," he suggested "we would have less criminals laughing at the Police Department and justice."

In introducing Justice Wachtler, Assemblyman Bell pointed out the unusualness of a judicial candidate confronting the issues. He told of the praise Wachtler is receiving around the state not only speaking out on court reform but for suggesting ways of accomplishing it.

Judge Wachtler passed on some of those suggestions to Kiwanians at the luncheon meeting suggesting that "victimless crimes" be eliminated from the criminal process. Morals statutes, illness statutes regulating intoxication and narcotics addiction and nuisance laws which cover crimes ranging from vagrancy to use of profanity in public, have no business in the state's penal law," he said.

Suggesting that priorities be assessed, Judge Wachtler said it is not simply a matter of whether we approve or disapprove of the statutes involved, it is a question of allocating our resources. "Those matters which need handling may be dealt with by appropriate administrative agencies. The remainder should be dropped," he said.

Computerizing the courts and employing non-judicial personnel to perform administrative and routine court functions was also proposed by the speaker, himself a member of the Kiwanis.

The use of para-judicial personnel in civil courts was advocated too with Judge

Wachtler suggesting that on certain liability questions and where the liability has already been resolved, or is conceded, trial lawyers with experience in negligence field could be used to resolve many disputes.

Reform in divorce court and annulment court was also included. "There is no good reason for allocating our scarce judicial resources to routine matrimonial cases," he said. Administrators, special referees or court staff. Better still, they can be handled out of court entirely. Attorneys, who are officers of the court, are fully able to take the necessary testimony and prepare the necessary affidavits for submission."

Calling for more federal funds to meet the critical court problems, Justice Wachtler called the current crisis one which by its very weight, threatens to overwhelm us entirely unless we shake off lethargy and reform where reform is needed.

Relief Fund Started

RED HOOK

Neighbors have started a fund to aid the Jeffrey Pendell family of Metzger Road. The family lost its mobile home and many possessions Monday when a violent thunderstorm overturned and destroyed their dwelling.

Mrs. Ralph Greco and Mrs. Henry Rathjen, both residents of Mountain View Estates mobile home park, are endeavoring to put together enough cash for a down payment for a new mobil home for the Pendells and perhaps buy such essentials as dishes.

The home was reportedly four years old and not covered by insurance. Mrs. Pendell and her two children were inside the building when it started to slide. A bed and closet fell on her when it overturned, but she managed to free her two children and get them to the Greco's nearby. The family is staying in Poughkeepsie.

Pendell works for Tetrolane fuel distributors in Marlboro.

Those wishing to aid the family may make checks payable to The Pendell Fund and send them to Mrs. Ralph Greco, Box 37, Metzger Road, Red Hook.

Jaycees Aiding Flood Victims

KINGSTON

Kingston Jaycees are taking part in a statewide Jaycee program to aid victims of the recent floods in western and southern New York.

Dave Favor, president of the Kingston Jaycees, said the program is being conducted in three phases. The first will be to collect immediate personal needs for flood victims. These include baby items such as disposable diapers, soap powders, etc., personal hygiene articles such as razor blades, tissues, soaps, sanitary napkins, etc., and household items such as flashlights, batteries, mops, pails, brooms, detergents, and disinfectants.

Items will be received at the Jaycee Room in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Inquire at the desk for a key to the room if no Jaycee personnel is on hand.

The second phase will raise funds for the Red Cross Disaster Fund. All funds will be distributed by the Red Cross for the relief of flood victims without loan charges or application. Checks should be made payable to the Kingston Jaycees and mailed to them in care of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The third phase will involve cleanup aid. Beginning July 8, Kingston Jaycees are joining others throughout the state to go to the Corning-Elmira area to help with cleanup. The Jaycees will furnish transportation for volunteers. Individuals or groups interested in helping out are asked to call Robert Hoffman, the project chairman, or David Favor.

Mets...Never a Dull Moment

By Combined Services
Oh, those New York Mets. you never know what's going to happen in their baseball games. Like at Shea Stadium Thursday night. They made only two hits in 14 innings and lost to San Diego, 1-0.
Still, it took a bases loaded walk by southpaw reliever Tug McGraw to account for the Padres' run.
In other National League games, San Francisco topped Philadelphia, 6-4 in 10 innings, Los Angeles walloped Montreal, 11-3, Atlanta edged Chicago, 4-3, and Pittsburgh beat Houston, 7-3, in 17 innings.
Meanwhile in the American League, relief pitcher Sparky Lyle has become the Yankees' indispensable man. He picked up his 17th save of the season as the Yanks held off the Oakland A's for a 6-2 win. Detroit shutout Kansas City, 7-0, Milwaukee nipped California, 6-5, Cleveland beat Texas twice, 4-3, and then 6-5, in 12 innings, and Baltimore nipped Chicago, 2-1.

Billie's Back in the Center

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—The collision today of those two contrasting personalities—Billie Jean King of Long Beach Calif., and champion Evonne Goolagong of Australia in the women's final should crown 1972 as truly the ladies' Wimbledon.
Mrs. King's expected win over Rosemary Casais of San Francisco swooped her into her seventh final which could be the most tantalizing women's encounter of the decade.
Mrs. King admitted that Evonne's shock semifinal win over her last year had jarred her as much as any defeat in her 12 years on the top tennis circuit.
"It has bothered me for a whole year—or 363 days to be exact," Mrs. King said.
"I just hope that I will play to a much higher standard than last year," Mrs. King said.
Evonne's greatest handicap will be her sluggish starting moods. Right through this tournament she has had to make up ground through profligate errors, especially on her fuzzy forehand. She cannot afford this luxury against Mrs. King, one of the most incisive competitors in the history of women's tennis.
Evonne will have the entire 15,000 center court crowd behind her—and Mrs. King wisely knows this—she will need every particle of her concentration, guile and stroke-into his second straight final.
He'll fight it out with second seed Ilie Nastase of Romania, who flicked and nudged an easy semifinal win over third seed, touch-play of the past.

He Wants to Beat Young

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—hurdles, 400-meter dash and 1,500-meter runs. Matthew made it through the first round without incident. It was more of the same in the 1,500 where Dave Wottle of Bowling Green, who tied the world record by winning the 800-meter run last Saturday, 400 John Smith, Lee Evans, and Jim Ryan, the world record holder at 800 yards, mile and 56.6 final lap to win in 3:43.7.
Rod Milburn, Willie Davenport, Leon Coleman and Tom Hill all advanced as expected through the first two rounds of the high hurdles, while in the 400 John Smith, Lee Evans, and Jim Ryan, the world record holder at 800 yards, mile and 56.6 final lap to win in 3:43.7.
Then, after going over his 5,000 victory, and a qualifying fifth-place finish by George Young in the other section of the metric mile, Prefontaine started to worry. "He (Young) must be in good shape or he wouldn't be here."
Prefontaine isn't happy and probably never will be until he has beaten Young, third in the steeplechase and 16th in the marathon at the 1968 Olympics. Sunday, he gets his first crack at the veteran shooting for his fourth Olympic berth.
There were no surprises during Thursday's trials program, devoted also to qualifying in the 110-meter high

Kuhn: Reserve Changes Due

HOUSTON (AP) — Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn says he thinks there may be some changes in baseball's controversial reserve clause.
Kuhn told a news conference here Thursday he had not received word from Major League Players Association counsel Marvin Miller, but he suspected the association would want to negotiate a change in the clause.
"In the area of the reserve system... there's pretty good indication how they're thinking," Kuhn said.
"I guess they feel they'll press the hardest for free agency after a certain number of years, whatever that might be, two years, four, five or six years. The concept would be the same, free agency after a certain number of years."
"I have to think there is a possibility for a change," he said.
Kuhn, here to address a Rotary Club luncheon, said the 24 major league teams would meet in Chicago today to review procedures for dealing with collective bargaining problems.

Braves Crush Nuclears, 19-3

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON

It took the Kingston Braves three innings to solve John Fescio's curve ball, then with that small obstacle out of the way, the Braves rapped 14 hits and capitalized on six Newburgh Nuclear errors to pile up a 19-3 Rookie League victory at Dietz Stadium Thursday night.

The only flaw in the locals' performance happened in the top of the fifth when centerfielder John Carter collided with left fielder Don Hastings, and all three Newburgh runs scored on the play. That spoiled Tom Gallo's shutout bid, and Carter and Hastings hobbled off to nurse their wounds, but Carter's replacement, Gary Short, triggered a six-run Kingston uprising in the bottom half to sabotage all Newburgh hopes.

While Gallo pitched perfect ball for 3 2/3 innings, his mates chipped away at Fescio for some early scores. Jerry Hawkins' sacrifice fly in the first frame chased Carter home, and Dave Horton, smacked an RBI single to center in the third.

Hawkins led off the home fourth with a triple and scored on Gallo's single to start a rally, but after an error and a walk forced two more runs home. Fescio caught Skip Lyons with his breaking pitch to end the threat with the bases loaded.

Rich Marianni reached safely on an error, and Gallo walked Frank Rossner to set the stage for the Braves' outfield antics in the fifth. Fescio, batting in the ninth position, lofted a fly to shallow left center. Carter had the best shot and had his glove on it when he crashed into Hastings who was also charging the play. The head-on smashup left both Braves rolling in the grass as Fescio scampered home to make it a 5-3 game.

Two errors, another single by Gallo and a passed ball pushed the Kingston lead up by two runs. Then a walk and a hit batted loaded the sacks for Short. He singled to right driving in two then followed Joe Shabot home as the Nucs blew the cutoff play and heaved the ball back into the outfield.

It was hard to distinguish the rest of the game from batting practice after that. Kingston smacked four hits in the sixth, and a passed ball pushed the Kingston lead up by two

Nationals Advance in BRL

Kingston.

A year ago, a Kingston Babe Ruth League baseball team won the District One tournament and traveled up to Jamestown and the New York State finals where it eventually finished second.

Thursday, the 1972 road to the state finals began here and a Kingston team made it through the first round. But then, it would have been pretty hard for it not to since the team

it beat also came from

Kingston.

The winners were the National League stars, 3-2, over the American League, and he victory pushed the Nationals up to the semi-finals Saturday when they'll play either Poughkeepsie South or Saugerties.

Going back to the history lesson, last year when Kingston did so well in the state it was primarily on the shoulders of catcher Walt DeBrosky, who later was named most valuable player in the championship finals. DeBrosky is back, but this time he's a pitcher and Thursday it was his 10

strikeout, six-hit effort that kept the Americans at bay.

The Nationals were able to

touch opposing pitcher Joe

Primo for two runs in the third

and another in the fourth to

post the victory.

Phil Timbrouck walked to open the third. Dave Kronick

reached first when his bunt

turned into a fielders' choice

as the Americans failed to get Timbrouck at second. In fact,

Timbrouck went right on to this time he's a pitcher and

Thursday it was his 10

strikeout, six-hit effort that kept

the Americans at bay.

The Nationals were able to

touch opposing pitcher Joe

and another in the fourth to

post the victory.

Phil Timbrouck walked to

reached first when his bunt

turned into a fielders' choice

when it counted and now many of them are counting on a return to the finals.

In City Slow Pitch League Pitchers Bear Down

KINGSTON

September is supposed to be the month when pitchers bear

down, but the City Slow Pitch

chuckers are getting a jump on tradition. Roger Calao lobbed

Uhl's Construction to an 11-8

victory over Tony's Pizzeria

Thursday as the Builders were the only team on the card to score double figures.

Other games saw Mahoney's stop the Jets, 9-5. Perry's take

Corner Rest, 8-5. Boyles beat

RNC Advertising, 8-6, and Ray's

Village Inn top Wayside Rest,

Calao helped himself with a home and a double and got

help from Al Stein's round

tripper as Uhl's rallied for four in the seventh to pull out their win. Circuit clouts by Tony

Badalato, Skeeter Carroll and

Ed Mills staked a pair of early leads for Tony's.

Brick Haslam stopped the Jets on 10 hits, and a home run by Roger Steltz led a parade of six extra-base smacks

by Mahoney's as the winners pulled away with three in the seventh. Mike Vaselewski of Mahoney's and Tom Glazer and

Bill McCord of the Jets each banged a triple.

A lot of slugging couldn't help

the Corner Rest effort. Tom

Barton and Mike Duffy con-

ected for homers, but Mike

Alecca held the Cornermen to five runs despite 17 safeties

and hit one out of the park

himself to pace Perry's win.

Mike Kinsch surrendered 18 hits and took the defeat.

Boyles jumped on Steve

Hesback for five runs in the first frame as Frank Reis held off RNC with a 10-hitter. Elliot

Sondak blasted a home run and Glenn DeWitt a triple but the losers' rallies fell short.

Ray Ritter spaced seven hits to notch the Village Inn victory.

Ron Eklund hit three doubles in four trips to pace the winners while Tom Auringer

homered in a 3-for-3 day for Wayside.

FT. ERIE, Ont. (UPI)—

"Arnie's Army" was geared for a full scale attack Thursday as the opening round of the

$150,000 Canadian Open Golf

Classic got underway, but somebody stole the arsenal. His name was Bunky Henry.

The 28-year-old Henry, once a place-kicker on the Georgia

Tech football team, shot a blazing six-under par 65 to take a one-stroke lead over Tom

Sanderson, who fired five-under 66.

Sam Snead, Sam Adams, Gay

Brewer, and Lou Graham were all two shots off the pace with 67's. Bruce Crampton and Bob

Smith came in with 68's while defending champion Lee Trevi-

no was grouped with four others at 69, two-under par.

Arnold Palmer, whose

"Army" was in full-force some 700 strong early Thursday when he teed off, shot an even par

71.

Henry eagled the 12th hole

when he sank a 60-footer out of the rough, along with five birdies in his hot first round, by the time he got to the 12th,

however, he was well on his way to a new course record.

Henry, who captured the Canadian Amateur title in 1965, said he believed an "eight or nine under par" would be good enough to take the title and the $30,000 top prize.

"I was happy to get away with a bogey there," he said in reference to the fifth hole when he shot a bogey-four after his four-iron tee shot hit the lake.

"This is a really great golf course," he said. "In fact it's by far the best course I've played in Canada."

Palmer, who said his "Army" behaved "very well," was not impressed with the low scores being registered in the first round. "I think this is a good golf course," the 42-year-old

Palmer said.

DiMag at Mighty M

It's official. Joe DiMaggio, the former great New York Yankee outfielder, will be in the starting lineup for Monticello Raceway's softball team when it faces the WCBS Newsmen, Saturday at 2:30 p.m. on the Grossinger's field in Liberty.

Joltin' Joe, who appears tonight at 7:30 in the Raceway's winner's circle to answer questions and sign autographs, will share the spotlight Saturday with the charity game's umpire, none other than Mrs. Bernice Gera, the New York City housewife who recently became the first woman to work a professional game.

Monticello's pitcher will be local favorite Cliff Ong of Pleasant Valley. His counterpart on the mound for WCBS will be Jim Jensen, the station's anchorman, who led his team to the Broadway Show League championship last season and to first place so far this year.

Among his mates are Pat Summerall, Tony Hernandez, Gary Essex, and ex-Met and Yankee Duke Carmel.

Monticello Raceway President Leon Greenberg says his team is the strongest in the area and that the addition of DiMaggio should help keep the game close.

Should the game be rained out Saturday, it will be held at the same time on Sunday.

The WCBS team will be honored at the Sullivan County track Saturday night with a special race. Jensen will present the winner's trophy.

Greenberg also announced that the Raceway would donate $1,000 to charity in honor of the game. Donations will be made to the Sullivan County Association for the Help of Retarded Children, the Sullivan County Chapter of Cerebral Palsy Association, and Gene Krupa's Retarded Children's Program.

Play Resumes Saturday at Wiltwyck

Bostic Eyes Herdegen Mark

KINGSTON — Dr. William T. (Bill) Odeneal, who tied with 147s. Dennis Beaver of Sawyerkill is at 148. "That's like giving Jack Nicklaus a five-stroke edge at the Masters," observed a long time Herdegen Memorial competitor. With Leon Randall out of the field, I don't see anybody as a real threat to Harvey.

Frank Muller, the Ellenville High School coach, is seven shots off the pace at 149 and Jack Parnett and Harvey's brother, Joe, are still another stroke away.

Joe Bostic, Harvey's younger brother, as familiar with the Michael Bruhn of Rondout and Wiltwyck layout as the leader, veteran New Paltz campaigner, is given the best chance to reduce Harvey's overall lead. The younger Bostic took runner-up honors with a two-over-par 72 in a field of more than 100 players in the New York State Amateur qualifier last Thursday at Dutchess Golf and Country Club.

Joe's showing at Dutchess indicated that he is probably in the best position to challenge his older brother over the final 36-holes. If Joe fails, there is a strong feeling that Harvey can break Bill Van Aken's all-time winning margin of 15 strokes set in the 1958 tournament.

The Rondout course, a stiff nine-hole layout, will play long and tough and nobody in the field is likely to take it apart. It will make an interesting battle ground as the 30 finalists fight for the 15 exempt spots for the 1973 tournament.

One late scratch is Joe Modica of Woodstock, who bowed out because of a previous business commitment for July 9. Saturday's pairings are listed below. The Sunday pairings will be according to scores, with the three lower scorers playing in the final threesome. Saturday's round starts at 8:30 a.m., the Sunday finale at 9 a.m.

Wholesale Prices Increase in June

WASHINGTON (AP) — A renewed surge in livestock and meat prices led an overall rise of five-tenths of one per cent in wholesale prices of food and industrial products in June, the government said today. The unemployment rate dropped during the month.

It was the second straight substantial monthly price increase, following a three-fifths of one per cent hike in May for the largest two-month increase since last January and February.

The Labor Department also reported that the nation's unemployment rate dropped from 5.9 to 5.5 per cent of the work force last month for the lowest figure in more than a year and a half. The improvement was entirely due to seasonal factors.

But the actual total of jobless Americans climbed 1.1 million to 5.4 million in the annual summer flood of school youngsters seeking work.

Because the rise in the work force was not as large as expected, the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics figured it as a decline in the jobless rate on a seasonal basis.

Livestock prices climbed 4.7 per cent, poultry rose 6.9 per cent and processed meats, poultry and fish rose 3.6 per cent, the report on wholesale prices said.

Industrial raw materials rose three-tenths of one per cent and ready for retail markets—in increased five-tenths of one per cent.

The increases pushed the government's Wholesale Price Index up to 118.3 of its 1967 base, meaning that it cost wholesalers $118.30 in June for every $100 worth of goods five years ago. The index was 3.9 per cent above a year ago.

The report said wholesale prices had climbed at an annual rate of 5.3 per cent in the seven months so far of President Nixon's Phase 2 wage-price controls, a larger increase than the 5.2 per cent rate of increase in the eight months prior to the Phase 1 Nixon last August.

Smoke Pot in Bedroom—'No Crime Involved'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Literary critic Leslie A. Fiedler and his wife, Margaret, committed no crime when they let their children smoke marijuana in an upstairs bedroom, New York's highest court has ruled.

In a 5-2 decision handed down Thursday, the Court of Appeals threw out the convictions on charges of allowing the use of marijuana in their home.

The charges resulted from a raid by police on their home April 27, 1967. Officers said they found marijuana and hashish in two upstairs rooms.

Five other persons, including two of the Fiedlers' sons and a daughter-in-law, were arrested. Their cases were resolved long ago by fines and probation.

Fiedler, an English professor at the State University of New York at Buffalo, is a noted critic and author of "Love and Death in the American Novel," a textbook in many college courses.

In the majority opinion, Justice James Gibson said, "It is clear from the record that no crime was charged or proven."

Fiedler did admit that he

At the regularly scheduled meeting of the Commissioners of the Mount Marion, Ruby Fire District held on June 21, 1972, the following action was taken:

"Resolved that the sum of $6,000.00 per annum be added to the budget for a period five (5) years. Total of $30,000.00. This sum, $6,000.00 per annum, will be set aside in a capital reserve fund as Certificates of Deposit for the purchase of two (2) new pumps.

A referendum will be held at the Mt. Marion Fire House on July 12, 1972, from 7:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. for the approval of the district taxpayers.

However, there is also some shyness because of the fear of being ridiculed by others, so start early to encourage this youngster and to provide for him or her opportunities to be with other young people so this obstacle can be overcome. Anything of a creative or artistic nature is fine here. Make sure that you send your child to the right schools and give right religious teachings. Sports are fine.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

OFF KEY: (Q.) My friend and I both take piano lessons from the same teacher. I know from what he has told her that he has jumped to many wrong conclusions about me. He believes that I have many problems at home. He thinks my mother has been divorced and remarried, and that my older sister is a stepister by mother's first marriage.

None of this is true. I have no family problems. My mother and father were high school sweethearts and married when they were 18. I have no idea how he got all these false impressions. I feel uncomfortable around him. And I don't know how to straighten him out—Unhappy Student in Illinois.

(A.) Don't try to straighten him out. Doing so would probably mix him up worse.

Your concern should be not with his mistaken ideas but that he talks so personally to other students about your life. This shows that as a person he is immature and has poor judgement—no matter how good a teacher he is.

You need another music teacher. Talk to your parents about one. Give them the details about the one you have now.

HE STOPPED: (Q.) After smoking for two years, I came to my senses and quit. I haven't smoked for four months. A friend told me that after six months my lungs will be clear and back to their normal pink color. Another friend said it would be five years. Can you say exactly how long it will be?—Ex-Smoker in Missouri.

(A.) The condition of your lungs now and in the future depends not only on how long you smoked, but also how heavily also on your physical condition before and while you were smoking, also on many things that may happen to you physically.

If you suspect any part of your respiratory system has been badly hurt by smoking or anything else, your doctor is the person to talk to. He can give you the details about yourself.

If you have no worrisome symptoms, the exact color of your lungs isn't the issue. The issue is that you have won a big victory, and don't let it feel great.

Another West Coast Hijacking

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A young AWOL soldier seized a Pacific Southwest Airlines jetliner for $450,000 ransom, which he said would be given to groups "involved in the Mideast crisis," and ordered the plane 1,000 miles up and down California before surrendering early today to his hostage, a law officer, authorities said.

The air pirate, who gave up after the jetliner landed at Oakland International Airport, was identified by the FBI as Francis Goodell, 21, of Manassas, Va., AWOL two days from the Army. FBI agent-in-charge Robert Gebhardt said military cards were found on Goodell, including one from Ft. Riley, Kan. The entire $450,000 was recovered the agent said.

The hijacker gave a note to the pilot which said the ransom money, obtained from PSA

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon command claimed today that elements of a South Vietnamese paratrooper task force spearheaded by tanks had forged into the heart of Quang Tri City, and seized control of two-thirds of the northern provincial capital.

But field reports and senior U.S. military source sharply disputed the announcement made in Saigon.

Associated Press correspondent Dennis Neeld reported from the front he had no information to indicate a thrust into the northern half of the city. A senior military source said there were no South Vietnamese units of any significant size in the city. He left open the possibility that reconnaissance teams might be operating there.

Field sources said South Vietnamese paratrooper and marine units were closing in on the city but were meeting tough resistance.

A Hue, 2nd grad A huge American air and naval armada covered the advancing South Vietnamese. South Vietnamese marines were closing in on the city from the east. One task force was reported to have advanced half a mile to the eastern outskirts and was a little more than a mile east of the Citadel, at the center of the city.

A second marine task force made a helicopter landing 2½ miles southeast of the city. Lt. Col. Do Viet, a spokesman for the Saigon command, said that elements of a South Vietnamese paratroop battalion backed by tanks had pushed into the northern part of Quang Tri a few hours before dawn.

"They are right next to the Citadel," he said. Viet reported that resistance appeared to be light; although the forwardmost troops of the battalion were shelled by 107mm rockets and long-range 130mm guns.

"We control at least two-thirds of the city," Viet told newsmen.

Heavier fighting was reported on the southern and eastern fringes of the city. Viet reported 58 North Vietnamese killed and eight tanks destroyed on the outskirts.

Paratroopers on the southern side battled heavy counterattacks Thursday night from North Vietnamese forces making a stand in a line of old French villas.

Scores of U.S. Navy jets from 7th Fleet carriers off the coast scrambled into the night skies to attack the North Vietnamese, their tanks, artillery and automatic weapons.

It was the first stiff resistance the South Vietnamese paratroopers have encountered since they began tightening their grip on the southern edges of the city three days ago.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported that South Vietnamese tanks knocked out two Soviet-built PT76 light amphibious tanks used by the North Vietnamese and a paratrooper knocked out a third with a hand-fired anti-tank missile.

The other tanks fled into heavy thickets.

Associated Press correspondent Dennis Neeld reported that South Vietnamese paratroopers captured three prisoners, one of them seriously wounded, and overran a North Vietnamese field hospital stocked with medical supplies.

By midmorning, mortars were still exploding on the South Vietnamese front lines.

"Just keep pumping it in there, just keep them coming into that area," Capt. Gall Furrow, 32, of Urbana, Ohio, shouted into his radio as he directed U.S. fighter-bombers to the North Vietnamese mortar positions. Furrow is an adviser with one of the South Vietnamese airborne battalions.

Hughes Faces Law Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Billionaire industrialist Howard Hughes is accused in a $51 million damage suit of slandering Noah Dietrich, his 83-year-old biographer and former aide.

It was the second slander suit filed as the result of a televised news conference last January in which a voice identified as Hughes said of an associate: "He's a no-good, dishonest son-of-a-bitch and he stole my mind."

Dietrich's suit, filed Thursday in Superior Court, alleged that Hughes made the statement about another associate and likened Dietrich to that individual.

In February, Robert A. Maheu, who was fired by Hughes as the $500,000-a-year head of Hughes' Nevada gambling and hotel empire, filed a $17.5 million libel and slander suit claiming the statement referred to him.

Also named as defendants were Hughes Tool Co., parent organization of the Hughes empire; the public relations firm of Carl Byoir & Associates; and Richard Hannah, a Byoir account executive.

Hannah said there would be no comment because he had not seen the suit.

The public relations firm arranged the February conference with seven newsmen in Los Angeles while Hughes was in the Bahamas.

Dietrich asked that the defendants pay $1 million in general damages and $50 million in punitive damages "or a greater amount according to the proof of his wealth."

Dietrich's suit said Hughes is a resident of Los Angeles County and "has been living in various parts of the Western Hemisphere for the past 15 years for the purpose of avoiding service of court process." Hughes Tool Co. officials say the billionaire is now living in a hotel suite in Vancouver, B.C.

moments later, an army observation post in the nearby Ardoyne bus station came under machine gun fire.

Four persons were taken to hospital suffering from shock after the blast, the army said.

Hours earlier, a Roman Catholic man was hit in the stomach by machine gun bullets fired from a parked car a few hundred yards from the church.

Roman Catholic leaders said they were afraid the violence would get worse because of Protestant plans to build more barricades this weekend and with the approach of July 12, the anniversary of the 1960 Protestant victory in the Battle of the Boyne which assured Northern Ireland would stay overwhelmingly Protestant.

Violence Continues In Northern Ireland

BELFAST (UPI)—A man was found seriously wounded in an automobile early today and a 100-pound gelignite bomb exploded against the wall of a Roman Catholic Church in a continued campaign of violence against civilians in Northern Ireland.

Since the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) declared a cease-fire June 26, 11 civilians have been killed, most of them shot in the head in apparent revenge killings.

A British army spokesman said the man was found shot in the Springfield Road section of Belfast. He was taken to a hospital in serious condition.

The bomb shattered stained glass windows of the church and damaged an adjoining school.
